

World-class medical treatment: Women's Health Clinic

Welcome to our Women's Health Clinic, where patients receive treatment in line with the very latest scientific findings from evidence-based medicine. Our wide range of specialists work together to provide integrated medical care for women.

We are one of only five university hospital women's health clinics in Switzerland, and our services range from pregnancy care and midwifery, to the treatment of hormonal disorders, right through to complex gynecological conditions including cancers. Our first priority, whatever the case, is to ensure that treatment always revolves around our patients' needs and wishes.

We work very closely with specialists from other disciplines to provide the highest quality personalized medical care. Our international team of physicians and nurses is not only focused on medical requirements, but is also sensitive to patients' personal and cultural needs. We are especially proud of the fact that we are able to care for patients in their own language – our staff at the clinic speak almost 20 between them.

«Our specialist medical expertise at the Women's Health Clinic is absolutely first-class, which means that patients are in the safest possible hands.»
